TODAY'S LIVE NEWS OF SUNSHINE STATE

CARLSBAD MEN GO TO WASHINGTON FOR PROJECT

Scott Etter and T. E. Williams Will Seek to Get Through Pending Irrigation Bill Held Up in Committee.

Carlsbad, N. M., May 29.—The committee appointed by the Water Users' board to select two men to go to Washington to interest the legislature in the irrigation extension bill has appointed Scott Etter and T. E. Williams. The committee also met to consider the water situation and determine on plans to stop further appropriations that infringe on the rights of the Carlsbad project. F. G. Tracy, who is the best informed man on the water question in the Pecos valley, met with the committee on request. The impression prevails among the water users that this matter has not received the attention that its importance would indicate. Mr. Etter and Mr. Williams will go at once to Washington, and are instructed to stay till the last day is long. The bill for the extension of payments to twenty years has the support of the secretary of the interior. In a telegram to F. G. Tracy this morning, he expressed himself for the bill and favors the idea of the water users sending men to help the New Mexico delegation land the bill.

MAY USE CACTUS IN TUCSON FOR THE ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS

Tucson, June 1.—Ornamental lights carried on standards in the form of a gigantic Saguaro cactus is the novel suggestion made to the chamber of commerce by J. J. McKay of Tucson. Mr. McKay has been struck by the beautiful desert in which the ornamental street lights of San Bernardino, Cal., have been arranged, and the idea came to him that a most novel and unique idea would be to have the street lights of Tucson arranged on standards which were modeled after the form of the giant saguaro cactus. He has submitted drawings to the chamber of commerce to express the idea.

CARRIZOZO TO HOLD GOOD ROADS MEET ON JUNE 18

Planned to Gather Every Road Enthusiast for Miles Around to Aid in Construction Now Under Way.

Carrizozo, N. M., May 29.—A mammoth get together good roads meeting will be held here June 18th and an invitation is being extended to all in Lincoln county and also all surrounding counties who are interested in good roads, to be present at that time. It is proposed to map out at this meeting comprehensive plans for the highway systems of Lincoln and adjoining counties.

Personal invitations are being sent to many outside the county, particularly in Torrance county from which territory a large number of people are expected. These Torrance county people are coming here to join with the people of Lincoln county in putting the Gran Quivira road on the map, and if our people turn out as well and get in touch with these boosters much may be done toward turning the tide of tourists through Lincoln and Torrance counties.

There is also a delegation coming from the eastern part or Torrance county, Guadalupe and Quay counties in behalf of the proposed Tucumcari-El Paso automobile road to be built along the Southwestern right of way, which will connect with our Carrizozo-Alamogordo road, now under construction.

R. E. Farley of Mountainair will be here in the interest of the Mountainair Chautauqua, and will deliver his celebrated lecture on the ancient ruins of New Mexico, which will be illustrated by many beautiful views. The purpose of Rev. Farley's lecture, which is of course entirely free, is to familiarize New Mexicans with the work of the Chautauqua, and also for the enlargement of the institution by the sale of a few shares of stock, and his lecture will also of course have a tendency toward creating an interest in the highway from Gran Quivira to Mountainair.

While the people of Lincoln county are of course interested in seeing the Gran Quivira-Mountainair road completed, our main concern is in getting the roads of our own county in such

ARIZONA INDIANS FURNISH NEW DESERT FOOD

Tepary Bean, Grown for Years by Pima and Papago Tribes Believed to Be an Ideal Dry Farm Product.

Tucson, Ariz., June 1.—The American Indian, to whom the white man and the rest of the world owe the blessings of corn and tobacco, seems likely to put the conquering race under new obligations to him by adding an immensely valuable item to its food supply.

Agricultural investigators of the University of Arizona have discovered that the Tepary bean, which has been cultivated from time immemorial by the Pima and Papago Indians, gives wonderful results as a dry-farming crop. It will yield, they say, under ordinary farming conditions in the dry southwest from 100 to 2,000 pounds to the acre. It has been known to yield as much as 1270 pounds with ten inches of rainfall. In food value it is said to be equal to any variety known to commerce.

This is the story of the discovery of the new food-bearing plant:

In July, 1918, having heard of a remarkable bean cultivated by the Indians in the semi-arid soil of their reservation, where the annual rainfall was only nine inches, Robert H. Forbes, director of the University of Arizona agricultural experiment station, and George F. Freeman, plant breeder, visited the reservation to verify the report. They found several varieties of agricultural plants not known outside of the valley, which had been grown by the Indians for thousands of years—years when the aridized canals systems, which can still be distinctly traced, irrigated vast tracts of lands. Here, among the Pima and Papago Indians, descendants of the Pueblo builders, they found varieties of corn, pumpkins, squashes and beans that had survived the race under whose husbandry they originated. But the different plants found there, by far the most valuable was the Tepary bean.

The investigators found that the beans were the principal food of a desert population of about 1,000. The Indians said their forefathers "long ago" had discovered these beans growing wild in the mountains farther south, and that occasional plants of the Tepary beans were yet found in remote canyons of the foothills. Centuries of cultivation had produced types of the vegetable eminently suited to withstand the extremes of heat and drought to which the climate and the indifferent agriculture of a primitive people often expose them.

Professors Forbes and Freeman came back to civilization with samples of their find and proceeded to test the possibilities of the plan. This has now been done so thoroughly that the Tepary has become one of the staple crops of Arizona, while it is also extensively cultivated in New Mexico and California. It has been grown successfully in China, Cuba, India and South Africa. Forty-seven varieties have been developed from the samples which the university explorers brought back from the Indians, and Professor Clothier, who was the first of the university faculty to hear of the plant, though he did not have an opportunity to hunt it down, thinks it destined to be one of the most profitable crops in all dry-farming countries.

SEVENTEEN CENTS PAID FOR WOOL AT ROSWELL

First Big Sale of 200,000 Lbs. Goes at Highest Price Paid for Several Years Past.

Roswell, N. M., May 31.—The first 200,000 pounds of the Pecon Valley 3½ million wool crop was sold here yesterday to eastern buyers, through local representatives. It is known positively that three of the clips, aggregating some 126,000 pounds, brought 17 cents. It is reported that the other clip brought the nice sum of 17½ cents.

The three wool clips bringing 17 cents were bought from the following: Charles Willbourn, who has 48,000 pounds, and Prager Miller and Blanchard Brothers, these clips aggregating 129,000 pounds.

Charles Salter, representing Boston firms, got all three of these clips.

"This is 3 to 4 cents more than the same clip brought last year."

Ralph Vandewort, representing the Brown & Adams company of Boston, got the Mocho Brothers' clip. It is reported that Vandewort paid 17½ cents for this clip.

All of this news will be welcomed by the wool growers. This is the first sale and will be something of a guide for the others to determine what they will get for their crops.

Of course this is all clean, rather long staple stuff, and will be very little shrinkage. Mountain wool nearly always as a rule brings more on the market than the other clips.

Harry Jaffa also sold his clip yesterday at 17 cents.

MAXWELL BABY IS DROWNED IN IRRIGATION DITCH NEAR ITS HOME

Maxwell, N. M., May 30.—Arno Jones, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Jones, who live seven miles northwest of here, was drowned yesterday morning in an irrigation ditch near the family home.

The little boy, who was not yet two years old, was playing around the barn while his father was harnessing up the horses. After getting the horses ready for work, Mr. Jones missed the boy, and went to the house to make sure he was safe. Mrs. Jones had just been alone at the house, and filled with alarm, Mr. Jones rushed to the irrigation ditch, which was flowing a strong stream, and hurried down its bank. About a thousand feet from the house he saw the child drifting with the current.

ANOTHER TEST OF LEGAL STATUS OF INDIANS

Judge Pope Issues Habeas Corpus for San Juan Indians Detained by State Authorities in Ditch Controversy.

(Special Dispatch to Evening Herald)

Santa Fe, N. M., June 1.—Judge Pope in federal court today issued a writ of habeas corpus for three San Juan Indians, who are detained in the jail at Española, under an order of Justice of the peace Antonio Vigt, for an alleged violation of irrigation-ditch rights at the pueblo, which is near Española. The prisoners were taken before the justice and committed to jail as part of a test case to determine the status of the Indian on his own lands, as to whether he can be brought under the jurisdiction of the state courts. The Justice of the peace acted in the matter after consulting Attorney General Clancy, who advised the action, on the ground that in a matter of the kind the Indians properly came under the jurisdiction of the state court. Judge Pope's writ is returnable immediately. There is lively interest in the result of the test since it will determine a situation which has caused much confusion and some trouble in Rio Arriba county in the past.

BROWN GETS TWO YEARS.

Benjamin F. Brown, former postmaster at Mesquero, N. M., pleaded guilty before Judge Pope this morning to a charge of embezzlement and was sentenced to two years in the state prison and to pay a fine of $500. Brown embezzled some $300 of postal funds.
